3. Arrange relief for staff whose homes have been affected
4. Staff are required to compile a list of materials and equipment damaged or destroyed for insurance purposes. For ease of assessment these should be broken down into four sections:
 - c) Furniture

 - e) Equipment other than furniture (videos, lathes, photocopiers etc.)
 - f) Personal items owned by staff and students.

9. All building replacements and furnishings will be handled by the District Education Office, DAIS and Asset Services in liaison with the centre.

SOCIAL AND EMOTIONAL CONSEQUENCES

CHILDREN'S NEEDS:

1. Sensitivity - Children under stress react differently depending on own unique circumstances. They need to share their perceptions and experiences, in a non-threatening way, through play, art, essay writing, discussion groups etc.
2. Information and Involvement - Children need clear information about post-fire planning. They can be made to feel useful by being allocated small tasks, eg. collating lists of damaged or destroyed material.
3. Reassurance - Aim for a quick return to normal routine but with an inbuilt flexibility to allow for each child to re-adjust at their own rate of recovery.

4. Support - Preferably done on an individual basis with children encouraged to discuss their experiences, thus establishing a mutual support system.
5. Understanding of the Social Consequences - Social situation may change dramatically, eg. loss of home. Staff need to be aware of this and make necessary allowances in terms of comfort and care

Children adversely affected by trauma may demonstrate other than normal behaviour. Stress may be manifested through withdrawal, depression, irritability or an ongoing physical illness. Staff concerned about an individual child's response can seek advice and assistance through the DECS Social Workers, the local office of the Department for Family and Community Services or the Child and Adolescent and Family Health Services' workers.

STAFF NEEDS

1. Stress Levels - Increased irritability, disruptive sleep patterns and lack of motivation in dealing with normal work requirements could be indicators. Staff should seek advice, assistance from colleagues, preschool director, regional personnel and/or counsellors.
2. Stress Amongst Colleagues - Arrange situations where staff can talk about their experiences in a non-threatening way. Social gatherings are ideal.

COMMUNITY NEEDS

Staff need to be aware that following a fire, there may be increased parental contact with the centre. Parents may want reassurance about children's behaviour and/or time to talk about their own experiences. Provide opportunities for parents to be involved in planning the centre's rebuilding programme.

Promote positive ways of community recovery, thus enhancing the community relationship, eg. tree replanting, fundraising for affected members of the community, promotion of fire awareness programmes based through the school.
